Yim Chun Shai Barred By the Law.

JUDGE ESTEE'S DECISION

Chinese Woman Who was Claimed as a Wife by Yim Quock Leong Must Return.

Yim Chun Shai, a pretty Chinese woman who wants to be admitted to Hawaii and who is claimed by Yim Quock Leong, manager of a Chinese store here, as his wife, must either go back to China or take the tortuous course of appealing to the Secretary of the United States Treasury.

United States Judge Estee yesterday declared he had no right to admit her and in a well-written decision sums up the law and facts of the case as follows:

Yim Quock Leong, a Chinese person, petitions for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Yim Chun Shai on the ground that she is his wife, and that he is a merchant and doing business in Honolulu; that she is unlawfully restrained of her liberty; that she is a Chinese alien and recently resided at Canton, China. That she came to this Territory on the America Maru, arriving at Honolulu on the 15th of December, 1900.

The parties claim to have been married in China thirteen years ago. It is admitted that since the alleged marriage, Yim Quock Leong married a native Hawaiian woman in this Territory who died about a year ago.

The collector of customs at the port of Honolulu refused to let Yim Chun Shai land on the ground that she did not belong to the class of Chinese persons entitled to admission.

It is not necessary to consider the facts further than to observe that the petition shows that Yim Chun Shai had a hearing before the collector of customs, who upon such hearing refused to allow her to land. This decision is final unless appealed from to the Secretary of the Treasury. The order of the collector refusing to allow a Chinese person to land is not reviewable by this court in this class of cases.

It is prescribed by the statutes of the United States (Amendment of August 19, 1894, vol. 28, U. S. Statutes, 590) that:

"In every case where an alien is excluded from admission to the United States under any law or treaty now existing or hereafter made, the decision of the appropriate immigration customs officer, if adverse to the admission of such alien, shall be final, unless reversed on appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury."

It is admitted that Yim Chun Shai is a Chinese alien; and that she has been excluded from landing by a customs officer who has rendered his decision adverse to her landing. The law seems to be clear that her only remedy, if dissatisfied with his ruling, is an appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury.

See the case of Ching Ahoo, on habeas corpus, decided by this court on October 26, 1900, where it was held that this court had no jurisdiction to review the action of the collector, and that the petitioner's remedy was an appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury.

See, also, Lem Moon Sing, 158 U. S., 540-45; in re Wai Tai, 96 Fed. Rep., 484; Leong Youk Tong, 90 Fed. Rep., 648.

So, in the very recent case of the United States vs. Ging Fung, 100 Fed. Rep., 389. In that case the collector made an order refusing to land the petitioner, an application for a writ of habeas corpus was made to the District Court, which entertained the writ and discharged the petitioner. The proceedings of the collector were shown upon the facts adduced to have been irregular, yet the United States Circuit Court of Appeals say in reversing the decision of the District Court:

"Notwithstanding these irregularities, of the collector at the hearing, 'The jurisdiction to determine the right of the petitioner to land still remained with the collector and the Secretary of the Treasury, citing the cases of Nishimura Ekiu vs. United States, 152 U. S., 651; Lem Moon Sing, 158 U. S., 538, hereinabove referred to."

See, also, in re Lee Ping, 104 Fed. Rep., 678.

It is however claimed by counsel for petitioner that as the Republic of Hawaii was an independent sovereignty when the act of Congress hereinafter referred to was passed, and that as the whole of the question of the jurisdiction of the United States over this and other Territories will soon be settled by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, bearing upon the point, especially as to the effect of the Constitution and laws of the United States over the recently acquired Territory, including the Territory of Hawaii, that this court should dispose of this case upon the facts presented, and not pass upon its jurisdiction at this time. But the court is clear that whatever may be the rule in other matters, the Chinese Exclusion laws of the United States are in force in the Territory of Hawaii, and that being so, this court has no jurisdiction of this proceeding; and therefore orders that the writ be dismissed and the petitioner remanded into custody.

January 7, 1901. ESTEE, Judge.

WHY PROMOTION OVERLOOKED HIM.

In a Missouri town where Charles B. Hanford was playing he was introduced to one of the prominent local politicians, a candidate for Congress at this time. "So you are Private John Allen," he said genially. Mr. Allen owned to the soft impeachment. "Well, have something to drink." "I thank you," was the answer, "but I never drink anything stronger than coffee." "Then take a cigar." "I am sorry, but I don't use tobacco." "Don't drink and don't use tobacco. Well, sir, it's no wonder you remained a private. You'd never do for a colonel or major in this part of the country."

"Boggs bought his wife one of those popular Indian brave calendars for a birthday present." "Did it please her?" "No; she was afraid to stay in the room with it; so now he has bought her a tomahawk."—Chicago Times-Herald.

ACTRESS TO BE THE BRIDE OF MILLIONAIRE CHANDLER

MINNIE ASHLEY.

DEMURE little Minnie Ashley, actress and singer of the Daly company in New York, has caused a stir among the fashionable residents of Great Neck, L. I., by endeavoring to purchase a home in that artistic community. They are up in arms against what they chose to regard as an intrusion upon their exclusiveness, and a committee of citizens has undertaken to frustrate her purpose. When the committee called upon her to seek to dissuade her, she burst into tears and exclaimed: "Why, I'm going to retire from the stage next year. I'm going to marry William Astor Chandler."

She is reported to have revealed the secret only after her pride had been stung to the quick by the action of a committee of the property owners who waited on G. Smith Stanton, a real estate agent with whom Miss Ashley was negotiating for the purchase of the Northam estate on the Shore road, Great Neck.

Friends of William Astor Chandler, millionaire, explorer and politician, received the news of Miss Ashley's declaration with expressions of surprise. It was not known that Mr. Chandler contemplated becoming a benedict. He had busied himself with politics and was credited with a rather unromantic turn of mind, and he had been quoted as advising young men not to marry, although this he denied.

Miss Ashley has spent several seasons at Great Neck, L. I. There she visited her friend, Mrs. J. B. Nelneed, wife of Dr. Nelneed, and became much attached to the little town. Wealthy residents were greatly agitated when it became known last summer that Miss Ashley and her mother had secured a lease of the H. A. Forest home on the Shore road, near Udal's hill. She spent the summer there. Her neighbors, however, evinced a marked coolness for the little actress. She declared she didn't mind this in the least, as it was Great Neck which she loved, and she didn't care a snap for the people. When she endeavored again to secure the Forest residence for next season the place was not for rent. Then she sought the purchase of a permanent home. She went to G. Smith Stanton, a local real estate dealer. After looking over his books he informed her the Northam property was for sale. This beautiful residence is situated near the shore. Miss Ashley readily agreed to buy the property. Before the title was delivered wealthy property owners waited on Mr. Stanton and objected. Mr. Stanton replied that it was his business to sell property and he would not be affected by the protests of the committee of Great Neck aristocrats. Then the committee sought Miss Northam, who owns the residence, and induced her not to sell.

Miss Ashley is one of the most beautiful women on the American stage. She has long, curly hair and her face has been described as of the "girlish innocence" type. She was married in 1896 to William H. Sheldon, an actor, but separated from her husband in 1899. She comes from Boston.
